Advance Planning
Creating a Meaningful Tribute
Suddenly you look around and you realize...

It's Time.

It's Time to Take the Steps to Protect the People You Love.

The subject of funeral and cemetery preferences is never easy to discuss. But discussing your funeral in advance can be a worthwhile experience in light of the impact your own death will have on those you love the most.

Planning ahead can help you reach goals, ease worries and save money. It eases the decision-making burden for loved ones and helps ensure family members know your views and wishes.

Peace of Mind
Knowing that your personal wishes are already planned gives peace of mind to you and your loved ones. It is a good feeling to know that your arrangements are taken care of and that you have been able to help ease your family's burden at a time of great need.

Also reassuring is the fact that you have done all you could to give your family a planned guideline; enabling them to spend time on the details and special touches, instead of being responsible for coordinating the events. This also allows your family more time to spend together—a very important part of their grief work.

Personal Choice
Making your plans in advance ensures that your choices will be recognized now and in the future. You will have the opportunity to make important decisions about how you wish to be remembered. Planning ahead also gives you the time to take your family’s needs into consideration. It is important for you to communicate your plans to your loved ones, as they will be truly impacted by the decisions you have made.

Economy
Planning services and ceremonies in advance also offers the opportunity to pay ahead. Although not required, paying in advance offers many advantages. Aside from easing the financial burden for your loved ones, pre-funding your final expenses ensures that these funds cannot be considered accessible by any government agency, creditor, nursing home, hospital, or third party.

Many families view paying for these expenses in advance as a beneficial step in getting their estate in order; others see it as sound investment and a contribution to their overall financial plan.

Which reason do you feel is most important?

At Roselawn Memorial Park, we can’t emphasize enough the importance of planning ahead. We understand how hard it can be to cope with the death of a loved one, let alone try to make numerous arrangements when a loss occurs. We’re happy to take the time up front to answer questions about cemetery space, services and products, Veterans benefits, and payment options.

Please feel free to call one of our Advance Planning Specialists at (217) 525-1661 for additional details or make an appointment to learn about the many options available to you and your family. We will be happy to meet with you at our cemetery office, in the comfort of your own home, or at the location of your choice.
